

Diamond MICRODERMABRASION

The skin structure

Through the removal of the dead cell material of the epidermis, the skin receives a signal for faster regeneration, i.e. to produce more new cells. The newly formed cells migrate upwards to the skin surface and gradually replace the ablated cell material. Through this process, a new, healthy skin layer is formed that is particularly receptive to active substances and reflects an optimal skin appearance.

In this way, unwanted skin conditions such as small scars, wrinkles, large pores and hyperpigmentation can be effectively treated.

What is Diamond Microdermabrasion?

Skin cells renew themselves in a regular cycle. This ability diminishes with age, resulting in a deterioration of the skin's appearance due to the lack of new cell formation. The dead skin layers must be removed in order to achieve an improvement in the skin's appearance.

Diamond microdermabrasion is an absolutely gentle removal of the upper skin layers. This stimulates the natural regeneration of the skin and visibly improves its appearance.

What does Diamond Microdermabrasion?

The treatment method has these main effects on the skin:

1. the gentle removal of the dead cellular material and the associated stimulation of new cell formation.
2. The optimal preparation of the skin for highly effective active ingredients and care products.

What can I achieve with the

Through the gentle and controlled peeling, the following skin results can be achieved:

- Lightening of hyperpigmentation and age spots
- Treatment of large-pored, impure skin
- Relaxation of facial expressions
- Improvement of cellulite
- Refinement of the skin texture
- Cell activation

What happens during the treatment?

Depending on the area of skin to be treated, a suitable diamond attachment is selected to remove the dead cell material. An adjustable vacuum ensures the removal of the ablated skin particles. Now your skin is ready to receive active ingredients, which can now be introduced into the skin. A subsequent mask serves to soothe the skin. Finally, the dermaceutical finishing care is applied. The special care preparations have the aim of to protect the skin and to supply it with effective supply.

NOTE: In order to achieve an optimal skin appearance, it is important to use the right skin care products at home. Also suitable for very sensitive skin.

How can I support the treatment?

In combination with the CNC dermaceutical special care products, you can achieve fast and long-lasting results.

As the diamond microdermabrasion method is an intensive peeling, it requires an individual home pflege.

The skin needs extra moisture and protection. This can be provided by the specially designed care products. It is very important that you continue to use the recommended system care products regularly after the treatments at home.

Thus, a long-term improvement of your skin appearance can be guaranteed.
